Malik Will Stay Diplomats Rule Expulsion Out

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Aug. 21—The expulsion of Russia from the United Nations or removal of Soviet Delegate Jacob Malik as Security Council president ruled out today by leading western diplomats.

Warren R. Austin, chief American delegate to UN, said in answer to many suggestions for the ousting of the Soviet Union and disciplining of Malik that the United States seeks peace and must be patient and strong.

Austin took note of the public clamor against Soviet obstructionism in UN and said:

"We do not find peace by throwing out the person with whom we must make the peace."

Similar sentiment was expressed by Sir Gladwyn Jebb, chief British delegate at UN. A poll of all other non-Soviet members of the Security Council over the weekend produced similar opinions.

THE PAST three weeks of fast and furious propaganda battle on Korea between Malik and other members of the council—brought on the basis of refusal by the Russian to abide by council rules—has had tremendous public repercussions through the world. Countless numbers of letters.

Hurricane Heads For Nova Scotia, Whips Up Tides

BOSTON, Aug. 21—The Atlantic hurricane swirled toward Nova Scotia today, after roaring past New England 100 miles southeast of Nantucket, whipping up high tides and 32-mile-per-hour north-east winds.

Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick and Newfoundland were due for high winds but were not expected to feel the brunt of the hurricane itself which the Weather Bureau said would blow itself far to the eastward.

The tropical blow came on the heels of two days of torrential rains, which had no connection with the hurricane. Bringing 2.06 inches of rain, it erased the woodland fire hazard in New England and was a boon to drought-ridden crops and low reservoirs.

The rainstorm caused eight deaths in highway accidents and drownings.

The hurricane's inshore gales did not damage except to weak tree branches in the Cape Cod.

GI View Of Korean War Is Sketched By Soldier

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—A GI view of the vicious North Korean Communist way of warfare was sketched graphically today in a letter from a New York Army private who matter-of-factly informed his parents:

"I got in the way of a Korean bullet."

From Taegu Pfc. James A. Modico, Jr., 18, wrote his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Modico of Corona, Queens;

"Dear Mom and Pop:

"I got in the way of a Korean bullet. I'm waiting here at a Red Cross field camp to have it taken out."

"I've been four days and four nights on the front line."

"It's a shame the way the North Koreans fight."

"They hide in the mountains all day. At night they start lining up... 200 abreast... women and children first... carrying anything they can get their hands on... shovels, pitchforks and clubs."

"ABOUT 1 A. M. they come running. We turn loose with machine guns, mortars and flame throwers and wipe them out."

"Then a new wave comes and a new one after that."

PRESIDENT TRUMAN at the White House is pleased with the portrait of General Jose de San Martin, liberator of Argentina, Chile and Peru. On the 100th anniversary of the death of the South American hero, the President hailed him as one whose name "represents the American ideal of democracy, justice and liberty." San Martin is among Mr. Truman's favorite figures of history and a statue of him has a place of honor in the Chief Executive's office at the White House.

'Pork Barrel' Funds Put In Deep Freeze By Truman

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—Yardmen in three key midwestern freight terminals went on strike today in an effort to force nationwide wage gains for 300,000 railroad trainmen and conductors.

The "token" walkout—to last five days—will be followed tomorrow by stoppages on two short-line railroads barring intervention in the dispute by President Truman.

Today's strike halted freight shipments through Cleveland, Louisville and St. Paul, but union officials declared that movement of passenger and mail trains would not be affected.

Picket lines were established at 6 a. m. local time in the three terminals, climaxing a 17-month battle by trainmen and conductors for a 40-hour week at the same pay they now get for 48. Union leaders, with an eye on the Korean war and defense program, hoped the "token" strikes would win their case without making a nationwide shutdown necessary.

The stoppages are due to end at midnight Friday.

THE TERMINAL strikes will be followed at 6 a. m. tomorrow by walkouts on the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern Railroad at Chicago and the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie at Pittsburgh.

These too are to run for five days.

A trainman spokesman said strikes will continue as scheduled unless Mr. Truman:

1. Seizes the railroads.

2. Requests executive heads of the railroads to come to Washington to take part personally in the White House talks.

Both management and union representatives are standing by in Washington for possible further word from the White House.

The 17-month-old dispute revolves around the unions' demand for a 40-hour week.

13 Accidents Investigated By Officials

One-Car Crash Is Most Serious

In addition to an accident which killed two youngsters in Atlanta last weekend, another 13 minor accidents were investigated by local authorities.

Circleville police were called to investigate seven minor crashes during the weekend. Pickaway County sheriff's office reported five mishaps and the state highway patrol investigated another.

Most serious of the other accidents was a one-car crash on Route 56 just north of Laurelville at 6 a. m. Sunday.

Deputy Carl Radcliff said the auto was driven by James G. Geringer, 26, of Columbus, who stated he lost control of his auto after hitting a raised place in the road.

Geringer told the deputy his car skidded on the wet pavement, turned over and landed on its wheels in a cornfield to the left of the highway.

WILLIAM GATRELL, 28, of Columbus, a passenger in the auto, suffered a possible skull fracture, while Geringer suffered head and shoulder bruises, back injury and right leg injury. Both men were given emergency aid in Berger hospital and (Continued on Page Two)

The commendation was voiced by Maj. Gen. Leo M. Kreber, who flew from Columbus to review the 166th Regimental Combat Team, the 107th Armored Cavalry Regiment, and the 372nd Separate Infantry Battalion.

Senate Dems Unite Against Anti-Red Bill

Security Bills To Get Action

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—Senate Democrats agreed today to present a united front against the Mundt-Ferguson anti-Communist rider to the Economic Control Bill.

The decision was reached at a Senate Democratic caucus today and announced by Sen. Kilgore (D) W. Va.

The West Virginian, on emerging from the closed session, told reporters that Senate leaders agreed to take up "all internal security bills" on their own merits in the very near future.

The promise apparently stiffened the Democrats into a solid front against the Mundt-Ferguson amendment.

KILGORE also said:

1. The Senate will take up the 620 million dollar federal aid to highways bill tomorrow. The prospect is for a 120 million slash from this measure in order to meet war expenditures.

2. The bill to grant GI's dependency allowances will have the next priority, but may be laid aside temporarily if the new tax bill is ready for the floor.

3. The tax bill would be called up, if ready, before the internal security legislation.

Kilgore said: "It was generally agreed, however, that the tax bill will have the highest priority when it is ready and will sidetrack the other legislation."

REPUBLICAN senators are generally for the Mundt-Ferguson proposal, which would declare Communism a conspiracy against the government, establish a subversives activities board, and require Communists to register.

Democratic leaders will attempt to get a unified front against injecting anti-subversive language into the purely-economic controls bill.

Reports persisted that the leaders may have to agree to call up the McCarran Bill in order to get that kind of report.

Majority Leader Lucas (D) Ill., says flatly, however, that he will not go as far as to agree to making the Mundt-Ferguson Bill the pending business in order to secure a solid party front.

He has already promised Democratic senators that they definitely will have a chance to vote on internal security legislation this session, but many Democrats are known to feel that the Administration Bill is too weak.

Nehru To Decide On Red Invitation

NEW DELHI, Aug. 21—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru is expected to decide in the next few days whether to accept a Chinese Communist invitation to visit Peiping or to head the Indian delegation to the Fall session of the United Nations.

The Peiping invitation was disclosed yesterday but it was not made known whether it was connected with the Korean conflict.

There have been recent reports that the Chinese Communists want a negotiated settlement of the Korean war, and the invitation could provide a springboard for peace discussions with the Indian premier.

Nehru has expressed his readiness to "go to the ends of the earth" in the cause of peace and it is known that he is opposed to a long stay in New York if he feels it will not aid peace efforts.

While India is supporting the United Nations in the Korean conflict, at the same time she backs the seating of the Chinese Communist delegation in place of the Chinese Nationalists at the world organization.

AWAITING ORDERS TO MOVE UP to the front, U. S. troops check their trucks and equipment at a field base behind the lines in South Korea. Several men take a few moments off from their duties to wash away the grime and dirt they gathered during their advance to the front lines.

AUTO DRAGGED INTO TOWER

Weekend Accidents Take Six Pickaway County Lives

A young Pickaway County family of four was wiped out and two young girls were killed in two tragic mishaps last weekend.

The Melvin Mongold family consisting of the father, 25, his 23-year-old wife, Rose, and their two children, Rickey Lynn, 2, and Brenda Kay, 1, of Circleville Route 1, was obliterated at about 11:25 p. m. Sunday when their car was struck by a passenger train.

Elaine Marlene Lehman, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Lehman of Atlanta, and Yvonne Newlin, 13, of Chillicothe, were killed Saturday night near Atlanta when their bicycles were struck by an auto operated by a Circleville man.

Authorities investigating the death of the Melvin Mongold family said that the Mongold car had waited for a westbound freight train to pass at an intersection at Valley Crossing, near Obetz, then crossed the tracks directly in the path of an oncoming passenger train.

The Mongold auto was dragged into a concrete and steel signal tower. The auto was split open by the impact and the bodies hurled out.

SHERIFF'S deputies reported that all members of the family were dead when they arrived on the scene. The bodies were found within a 25-foot area of the tower.

Elaine Lehman and her friend, Yvonne Newlin, who had been riding their bicycles south on Route 277 just outside Atlanta at about 7:45 p. m. Saturday when they were struck from the rear by an auto driven by John E. Justice, 23, of 225 East Union, a member of the U. S. Air Force.

State Highway Patrolman Charles Waters said the youngsters were returning to Atlanta after having ridden their bikes to see a group of gypsies encamped along Route 277.

Speeder Is Glad Cops Caught Him

ASHTABULA, Aug. 21—Roger Brennenman is mighty glad that the Ashtabula police caught him for speeding.

Patrolman Norman Hummer and Robert Dieffenback ran him down as he was racing on Lake avenue near the General hospital.

The policemen pulled alongside the car just as it turned into the hospital driveway. They were in time to deliver a husky baby girl.

The mother, Mrs. Esther Brennenman, 21, and the baby are doing fine.

22. The patrolman said the bicycles were not equipped with lights, but had reflectors.

"It was just about dark," Waters said. "Justice told me that he was bothered by the lights of an oncoming car when his auto hit the two girls."

"Justice's car was out of control for about 500 feet after the impact," the patrolman stated.

"The car hit a culvert on the right side of the road, then crossed the road to end up in the left ditch."

STOPPAGES END FRIDAY

'Token' Railroad Walkout Is Called By Yardmen

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—President Truman put more than half a billion dollars in "pork barrel" public works expenditures in the deep freeze today.

The cut in expenditures was a direct result of the Korean war and the funds needed to support it. The freeze order promises to stop numerous rivers and harbors and flood control projects.

The freeze order was disclosed in a communication to the chairmen of the House and Senate appropriations committees from the Army, whose engineers are in charge of the projects.

The communication advised the committee chairmen, Sen. McKellar (D) Tenn. and Rep. Cannon (D) Mo., that the entire Army civil works program will be reviewed "to insure that no new projects are initiated unless they make an important contribution to the war effort."

In addition, the two committee chairmen were informed that projects already under construction will be continued only if they meet specific criteria established to gauge their importance.

Quick UMT Action Urged As Insurance Against War

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—Congress was urged today to act quickly on a Universal Military Training bill as insurance against all out war with Russia.

The appeal came from Sen. Tydings (D) Md., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, who announced that he will fight for UMT even though he doubts passage by this session of Congress.

Tydings asserted that "if we have UMT in time, we may not get into a shooting war with Russia."

The Senate committee opens hearings tomorrow on the administration's proposal for at least six months training for all youths 17 to 21 years of age.

The chairman declared that "time is precious" and said that the hearings will be brief and to the point.

Invaders Rebound From Setback

May Be Enemy's Last Major Drive

TOKYO, Aug. 22—(Tuesday)—The Korean war's heaviest artillery duel was touched off late Monday when tank-led Communist troops renewed an attempt to break through to Taegu from the north.

The fresh Red assault was launched after the North Korean troops had been halted following a two and one-half mile advance.

Simultaneously, augmented Communist forces in the south pressed a steadily mounting onslaught that achieved several temporary penetrations of American lines some 45 miles west of the all-important entry harbor of Pusan.

Rebounding from reverses that cost them some 11,000 casualties in three days, the invaders sent a column of about 1,000 troops to the vicinity of Yuchon where they overran a position held by a U. S. Army company.

An 8th Army Field Headquarters communique, received in Tokyo Monday night said the U. S. 24th Regimental Combat Team was counter-attacking in an effort to retrieve the lost position.

THIRTEEN miles southwest of Taegu, Communist reinforcements rammed across the Nakdong to the river's east bank in an endeavor to develop a drive on the former South Korean capital from that direction.

A few miles farther south however American combat patrols boldly crossed to the Nakdong's west side in an attempt to learn what happened to the remnants of the Red fourth division which was thrown out of the Changnyong bulge.

Along the east coast, another large Communist force was reeling back north from Pohang and Kigye under a sustained South Korean onslaught, reported to have gained 12 miles.

But principal attention again was focused on vital Taegu's northern approaches. The latest 8th Army bulletin announced that "the enemy continues to exert heavy pressure all along" the 18-mile sector from Waegwan northeast to the area south of Kunwi.

Ohio State Fair Opening Marks Special Birthday

COLUMBUS, Aug. 21—Rolls round once more the latter part of August and with it the grand finale of an Ohio Summer—the State Fair.

This is the midway point of the 20th century and it marks a special birthday for the big Ohioana show. The state fair is celebrating a centennial.

Ohio still was a pioneer state with large stretches of virgin forest and spotted only here and there with villages and cities when the first statewide exposition opened at Cincinnati in 1850.

Pestilence, weather and finances were only a few of the troubles that dogged the early fair planners, the Ohio State Board of Agriculture.

minimum of time should be devoted to a review of attitudes toward universal training as such" and that the hearings will be aimed primarily at determining whether the bill is workable.

Tydings pointedly remarked that "there is no point in holding lengthy and extensive hearings on the philosophy of universal training. The problem has been examined repeatedly and at great length in previous conferences."

The senator apparently was referring to the fact that President Truman has repeatedly asked Congress for UMT, but has been rebuffed because of the expense of such a system.

Mr. Truman asked for 600 million dollars to get the UMT program started in each of his last two budget messages.

It has been estimated that UMT now would cost about 180 million dollars in the first year, with the cost eventually leveling off at about two billions annually.

It is expected that 850,000 men a year would be trained under the legislation, if enacted. They would receive $30 a month pay during their training.

All three are believed to favor the bill 100 per cent.

Tydings said that "only a minimum of time should be devoted to a review of attitudes toward universal training as such" and that the hearings will be aimed primarily at determining whether the bill is workable.

Tydings pointedly remarked that "there is no point in holding lengthy and extensive hearings on the philosophy of universal training. The problem has been examined repeatedly and at great length in previous conferences."

The senator apparently was referring to the fact that President Truman has repeatedly asked Congress for UMT, but has been rebuffed because of the expense of such a system.

Mr. Truman asked for 600 million dollars to get the UMT program started in each of his last two budget messages.

It has been estimated that UMT now would cost about 180 million dollars in the first year, with the cost eventually leveling off at about two billions annually.

It is expected that 850,000 men a year would be trained under the legislation, if enacted. They would receive $30 a month pay during their training.

Invaders Rebound From Setback

May Be Enemy's Last Major Drive

TOKYO, Aug. 22—(Tuesday)—The Korean war's heaviest artillery duel was touched off late Monday when tanked Communist troops renewed an attempt to break through to Taegu from the north.

The fresh Red assault was launched after the North Korean troops had been halted following a two and one-half mile advance.

Simultaneously, augmented Communist forces in the south pressed a steadily mounting onslaught that achieved several temporary penetrations of American lines some 45 miles west of the all-important entry harbor of Pusan.

Rebounding from reverses that cost them some 11,000 casualties in three days, the invaders sent a column of about 1,000 troops to the vicinity of Yuchon where they overran a position held by a U. S. Army company.

An 8th Army Field Headquarters communique, received in Tokyo Monday night said the U. S. 24th Regimental Combat Team was counter-attacking in an effort to retrieve the lost position.

But principal attention again was focused on vital Taegu's northern approaches. The latest 8th Army bulletin announced that "the enemy continues to exert heavy pressure all along" the 18-mile sector from Waegwan northeast to the area south of Kunwi.

A 5:20 a. m. front dispatch quoted U. S. flyers returning to a South Korean air field from

ters and telegrams have inundated the world headquarters.

Austin said the television coverage given the Security Council meetings has given Americans a first hand view of Soviet tactics in the United Nations.

Austin conceded that it is a "strain" to listen to Malik's propaganda attacks but argued that, in the end, truth will prevail. He added:

"Meanwhile it is better for diplomats to get nervous indignation than for young men to get shot."

The next round in the Security Council begins in a private session at 3 p. m. today. Malik has requested the other ten members to meet him at Lake Success for resumption of talks behind closed doors. Last week, he summoned such a meeting but disappointed the others by merely hinting that he would drop his boycott in exchange for the seating of the North Koreans at the council table.

The western group turned this down flat and there is little reason to assume that any delegate—with the exception of Yugoslavia—will display a change of attitude this afternoon.

area and adjacent islands. Airports all along the southern New England coast had been alerted and planes had been doubled.

ALL PLANES at the Quonset Point Naval Air Base in Rhode Island had been removed to Albany and Schenectady, N. Y. Vessel owners sought safe moorings.

The telephone company had emergency crews ready while crews in Pennsylvania and New York stood by in case of need in southern New England.

Storm warnings by the Weather Bureau had kept vessels from putting out.

A tropical hurricane, with winds up to 100-miles an hour, spun out of the waters of the Northeast Caribbean today 40 miles east of the British island of Antigua and menaced the West Indies.

Hurricane warnings were hoisted from the French island of Guadeloupe west of St. Martin, another French possession. The storm shortly after 9 a. m. was reported more than 1,200 miles southeast of the Florida mainland.

The San Juan, P. R., Weather Bureau called the disturbance a "small hurricane" at 8:30 a. m., but by 9 o'clock later information showed the second tropical storm of the 1950 season was packed with 100-miles-an-hour blasts.

Northeast storm warnings were ordered for the Virgin Islands.

Traffic Violators Are Fined Here By Mayor Miller

Three men were fined a total of $300 and costs last weekend in the court of Mayor Thurman I. Miller for driving while drunk.

Wilbur Maiden, 46, of Columbus, was fined $100 and costs for drunken driving on Route 23 north of Circleville. He was arrested by State Highway Patrolman Charles Watters.

Howard J. Cowans, 50, of Columbus, was fined $100 and costs for driving while drunk on South Court street and $10 and costs for driving without an operator's license. He was arrested by Officers Mack Wise and Carl Thompson.

Andrew Bartley, 40, of Portsmouth Route 1, also was fined $100 and costs for driving while drunk on South Court street. Officer Wise made the arrest.

Meanwhile, 16 other persons were arrested for violations last weekend, while one man forfeited a bond for failure to appear.

James Rowling, 25, of Columbus, forfeited $25 bond when he failed to answer an accusation of operating an auto with fictitious plates.

City police picked up nine persons for intoxication during the weekend, one for being in actual physical control of his auto while drunk, two for disregarding stop lights, and one each for vagrancy, minor kitship, investigation and passing in non-passing zone.

a member of the fair executive committee and postponed the 1954 fair for one month. Public indifference—even direct opposition in some cases—frustrated the planners.

Only at the last minute did a few public spirited Cincinnatians come forward to raise the funds needed to float the first fair financially.

Despite all hardships the 1850 fair attracted both exhibitors and visitors. When the state's first agricultural and mechanical show closed, the books showed total admission sales of $7,284 and a profit of $3,138.

The modern state fair consists of representative sections of every item of Ohioana, all brought together in a miniature Buckeye state and tucked into a 150-acre permanent grounds at Columbus.

In contrast to early times, State Agriculture Director Howard S. Foust is planning for half a million visitors at this year's Aug. 26-Sept. 1 fair.

'Pork Barrel' Funds Put In Deep Freeze By Truman

work will be halted on many projects and will not be initiated on numerous new programs scheduled to begin.

Committee sources stated that the Army has been unable to make any estimate of savings that will result from the order until all projects have been reviewed. However, it was certain to be substantial.

The freeze order was issued as House and Senate appropriations conferees were considering more than a half-billion dollars in new funds for rivers and harbors and flood control projects.

The House voted $630,820,000 for this purpose, while the Senate increased the amount to $763,464,620. An informed source stated that none of the funds will be used regardless of what action Congress takes unless the projects conform to the standards established by the Army.

The standards are designed to insure that work will be continued on projects deemed essential in themselves and which do not compete too much in the use of war-needed critical materials. Maintenance of completed projects, advance planning of selected authorized projects, and the survey program were ordered continued.

The order was issued in accordance with a directive sent Army Secretary Pace by the President on July 21. In it Mr. Truman directed that wherever possible non-essential work should be deferred in order to save labor and materials needed for the war effort.

13 Accidents Investigated By Officials

later transferred to White Cross hospital, Columbus.

Another personal injury, one-car accident occurred at 4 p. m. Saturday on Route 23 about 1 mile south of Circleville.

Deputy Sheriff Walter Richards said Raymond Brungs, 25, of 148 West High street, lost control of his auto when an oncoming car crowded him to the right.

Richards said the Brungs auto skidded on loose gravel, smashed into a small culvert, plunged into a fence and snapped off a telephone pole.

Mrs. Betty Brungs, wife of the driver, suffered an ankle injury, the deputy said.

Richards also investigated an accident involving an overturned truck on Route 23 about 1 mile north of town at about 8:45 a. m. Sunday.

THE DEPUTY said William Littleton, 39, of Columbus, the driver, told him that he lost control of the vehicle as he attempted to pass another truck. He said that an auto coming from behind him threw him out of control. The truck overturned onto its top in the right ditch.

Littleton suffered a foot and head injury in the mishap, Richards said.

Only personal injury accident reported by city police was a two-car crash at Court and High streets at about 4:30 p. m. Sunday.

Officer Dixie Watters said the accident involved autos driven by Howard Ater, 34, of Spring Hollow addition, and John Amsbaugh, 36, of Columbus.

The officer said the mishap occurred when the Ater car travelled east on High street into the path of the Amsbaugh auto, which was travelling north on Court street.

Ethel Teass of Columbus and Mrs. John Amsbaugh, passengers in the Amsbaugh auto, were treated for minor injuries in Berger hospital.

Other city accidents listed by time and place of occurrence were:

1:40 a. m. Saturday at South Scioto street; 7:50 p. m. Saturday at North Scioto street; 8:45 p. m. Saturday at Route 22 just west of the railroad tracks; 10:15 a. m. Sunday at Court and Corwin streets; 4:45 p. m. Sunday at Main and Pickaway streets; and at 8:45 p. m. Sunday at South Pickaway street.

State Highway Patrolman Charles Watters investigated another accident at 10 a. m. Monday on Route 104 near the Franklin-Pickaway County line involving a truck and an auto.

Watters said the accident involved a truck operated by William Gray, 50, of Chillicothe Route 6, who was headed north; and an auto driven by Robert Browning, about 16, of Lockbourne, headed south.

The patrolman said the Browning auto crossed to the left side of the highway to sideswipe the truck. The left side of the auto was completely demolished, he said.

The driver and a passenger received minor injuries, Watters said.

Invaders Rebound From Setback

combat missions as saying they had seen "the fiercest enemy artillery barrage of the war" south of Kunwi late Monday.

In that area, armor-tipped Red spearheads, unleashing an attack Sunday night, had pushed south 4,000 yards to a point only about 12 miles north of Taegu when they were stopped by combined Allied ground and air action.

THE INVADERS then resumed the onslaught Monday. They struck most heavily at the left (west) flank of the South Korean First Division in an effort to thrust a wedge between that force and the U. S. Army's famed 27th ("Wolfhound") Regiment on the west.

The returning American airmen said it looked like the North Koreans now had launched their biggest bid to break through all the way to Taegu, the important communications and supply hub at the northwest corner of the Allied defense rectangle.

The pilots said American and South Korean field pieces were replying to the enemy's big guns in a "tremendous" artillery duel that was churning up the northern approaches to Taegu.

The Red troops jumped off Sunday night from the village of Sakchok, below Kunwi. They smashed toward two and a half miles before they were stopped by the Korean war's first large-scale night-time air mission in support of ground forces.

U. S. B-26 light bombers and Mustang fighter-bombers, guided by their targets by American artillery firing white phosphorus shells, swooped down to strike against the oncoming foe at 11 Sunday night.

FOR FOUR hours the planes bombed, rocketed and strafed the Reds while the South Korean First Division absorbed the shock of the enemy attack and the U. S. 27th Regiment held its positions on the west. The foe was forced to pause before dawn Monday.

In the face of the enemy's renewed drive later in the day, the Wolfhound regiment sent a daylight raiding force of two tanks and an infantry platoon one mile behind the Communist lines.

This daring feat was announced in the 8th Army's Monday night bulletin which said the American force raided the village of Sinjumak, inflicted casualties on the enemy and destroyed two self-propelled guns, one anti-tank gun and a tank which already had been damaged.

Airmen returning from support missions over the south sector told of a "major" enemy vehicle and supply buildup west of Chinju to support the new Red attempt to break through to Masan and Pusan.

Since before dawn Saturday the enemy's advance forces had been constantly assaulting U. S. 25th Division positions near Haman, 45 miles west-northwest of Pusan and nine miles northwest of the gateway port of Masan.

A front dispatch said the Reds had gouged out penetrations in "several places" in the southern sector, but thus far had been pushed back from each point.

As the fresh fighting raged, a spokesman at Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters said the enemy was striving desperately to mount what may be his last major offensive on any one of three fronts, but added:

"He just doesn't seem to have the punch left."

Chain Of Towers To Go Into Use

CHICAGO, Aug. 21—An 838-mile chain of towers soon will link Chicago and New York City on the world's longest microwave radio relay system.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Co. has announced that it will put the 12-million-dollar system into service Sept. 1, to carry hundreds of telephone conversations and several television programs.

The radio relay link is expected to serve as part of the planned coast-to-coast TV network. A. T. & T. also announced that another 458-mile radio relay system connecting Chicago and Omaha will be inaugurated Sept. 30.

A SPOKESMAN for the trainmen said after fruitless sessions Saturday and Sunday that they will not return to discussions with John R. Steelman, presidential assistant, unless Mr. Truman personally issues a new conference call.

W. P. Kennedy, trainmen president, blamed dilatory tactics of management for failure of the conferences with Steelman.

Kennedy charged the carriers sent to the presidential conferences the same committee which for more than a year has "filibustered, stalled and prolonged this controversy."

Another union spokesman said, "we will not meet again with Steelman, and we will not meet again with the carriers committee here now." He said that any action will have to come now from Mr. Truman.

The unions said they were willing to operate under government seizure until the dispute is settled.

British Unveil World Aid Plan

LONDON, Aug. 21—The British Labor Party unveiled today a "World Plan for Mutual Aid" to be undertaken by the free nations of the world to stamp out poverty and eliminate the breeding grounds of Communism and Fascism.

The plan, which is an extension of President Truman's Point Four Program for aid to underdeveloped areas, would replace the Marshall Plan in 1952 and be supported by the participating countries.

It was contained in the Labor Party's statement of policies and principles published yesterday in a pamphlet titled "Labor and the New Society."

The plan calls for all efforts being made by the United States, the various assistance organizations of the United Nations and others to be brought under one head.

As England's particular contribution, the Laborites proposed that since most of the backward areas need technical and scientific aid, it would organize a technical service to provide knowledge, experience and skill wherever needed.

Austin said the television coverage given the Security Council meetings has given Americans a first hand view of Soviet tactics in the United Nations.

Austin conceded that it is a "strain" to listen to Malik's propaganda attacks but argued that, in the end, truth will prevail. He added:

"Meanwhile it is better for diplomats to get nervous indignation than for young men to get shot."

The next round in the Security Council begins in a private session at 3 p. m. today. Malik has requested the other ten members to meet him at Lake Success for resumption of talks behind closed doors. Last week, he summoned such a meeting but disappointed the others by merely hinting that he would drop his boycott in exchange for the seating of the North Koreans at the council table.

The western group turned this down flat and there is little reason to assume that any delegate—with the exception of Yugoslavia—will display a change of attitude this afternoon.

area and adjacent islands. Airports all along the southern New England coast had been alerted and planes had been double-lashed.

ALL PLANES at the Quonset Point Naval Air Base in Rhode Island had been removed to Albany and Schenectady, N. Y. Vessel owners sought safe moorings.

The telephone company had emergency crews ready while crews in Pennsylvania and New York stood by in case of need in southern New England.

Storm warnings by the Weather Bureau had kept vessels from putting out.

A tropical hurricane, with winds up to 100-miles an hour, spun out of the waters of the Northeast Caribbean today 40 miles east of the British island of Antigua and menaced the West Indies.

Hurricane warnings were hoisted from the French island of Guadeloupe west of St. Martin, another French possession. The storm shortly after 9 a. m. was reported more than 1,200 miles southeast of the Florida mainland.

The San Juan, P. R., Weather Bureau called the disturbance a "small hurricane" at 8:30 a. m., but by 9 o'clock later information showed the second tropical storm of the 1950 season was packed with 100-miles-an-hour blasts.

Northeast storm warnings were ordered for the Virgin Islands.

Traffic Violators Are Fined Here By Mayor Miller

Three men were fined a total of $300 and costs last weekend in the court of Mayor Thurman I. Miller for driving while drunk. Wilbur Maiden, 48, of Columbus, was fined $100 and costs for drunken driving on Route 23 north of Circleville. He was arrested by State Highway Patrolman Charles Watters.

Howard J. Cowans, 50, of Columbus, was fined $100 and costs for driving while drunk on South Court street and $10 and costs for driving without an operator's license. He was arrested by Officers Mack Wise and Carl Thompson.

Andrew Bartley, 40, of Portsmouth Route 1, also was fined $100 and costs for driving while drunk on South Court street. Officer Wise made the arrest.

Meanwhile, 16 other persons were arrested for violations last weekend, while one man forfeited a bond for failure to appear. James Rowling, 25, of Columbus, forfeited $25 bond when he failed to answer an accusation of operating an auto with fictitious plates.

City police picked up nine persons for intoxication during the weekend, one for being in actual physical control of his auto while drunk, two for disregarding stop lights, and one each for vagrancy, minor kitship, investigation and passing in non-passing zone.

Committee sources stated that the Army has been unable to make any estimate of savings that will result from the order until all projects have been reviewed. However, it was certain to be substantial.

The freeze order was issued as House and Senate appropriations conferees were considering more than a half-billion dollars in new funds for rivers and harbors and flood control projects.

The House voted $630,820,000 for this purpose, while the Senate increased the amount to $763,464,620. An informed source stated that none of the funds will be used regardless of what action Congress takes unless the projects conform to the standards established by the Army.

The standards are designed to insure that work will be continued on projects deemed essential in themselves and which do not compete too much in the use of war-needed critical materials. Maintenance of completed projects, advance planning of selected authorized projects, and the survey program were ordered continued.

The order was issued in accordance with a directive sent

later transferred to White Cross hospital, Columbus.

Another personal injury, one-car accident occurred at 4 p. m. Saturday on Route 23 about 1 mile south of Circleville.

Deputy Sheriff Walter Richards said Raymond Brungs, 25, of 148 West High street, lost control of his auto when an oncoming car crowded him to the right.

Richards said the Brungs auto skidded on loose gravel, smashed into a small culvert, plunged into a fence and snapped off a telephone pole.

Mrs. Betty Brungs, wife of the driver, suffered an ankle injury, the deputy said.

Richards also investigated an accident involving an overturned truck on Route 23 about 1 mile north of town at about 8:45 a. m. Sunday.

THE DEPUTY said William Littleton, 39, of Columbus, the driver, told him that he lost control of the vehicle as he attempted to pass another truck. He said that an auto coming from behind him threw him out of control. The truck overturned onto its top in the right ditch.

Littleton suffered a foot and head injury in the mishap, Richards said.

Only personal injury accident reported by city police was a two-car crash at Court and High streets at about 4:30 p. m. Sunday.

Officer Dixie Watters said the accident involved autos driven by Howard Ater, 34, of Spring Hollow addition, and John Amsbaugh, 36, of Columbus.

The officer said the mishap occurred when the Ater car travelled east on High street into the path of the Amsbaugh auto, which was travelling north on Court street.

Ethel Teass of Columbus and Mrs. John Amsbaugh, passengers in the Amsbaugh auto, were treated for minor injuries in Berger hospital.

Other city accidents listed by time and place of occurrence were:

1:40 a. m. Saturday at South Scioto street; 7:50 p. m. Saturday at North Scioto street; 8:45 p. m. Saturday at Route 22 just west of the railroad tracks; 10:15 a. m. Sunday at Court and Corwin streets; 4:45 p. m. Sunday at Main and Pickaway streets; and at 8:45 p. m. Sunday at South Pickaway street.

State Highway Patrolman Charles Watters investigated another accident at 10 a. m. Monday on Route 104 near the Franklin-Pickaway County line involving a truck and an auto.

Watters said the accident involved a truck operated by William Gray, 50, of Chillicothe Route 6, who was headed north; and an auto driven by Robert Browning, about 16, of Lockbourne, headed south.

The patrolman said the Browning auto crossed to the left side of the highway to sideswipe the truck. The left side of the auto was completely demolished, he said.

The driver and a passenger received minor injuries, Watters said.

combat missions as saying they had seen "the fiercest enemy army tillery barracks of the war" south of Kunwi late Monday.

In that area, armor-tipped Red spearheads, unleashing an attack Sunday night, had pushed south 4,000 yards to a point only about 12 miles north of Taegu when they were stopped by combined Allied ground and air action.

THE INVADERS then resumed the onslaught Monday. They struck most heavily at the left (west) flank of the South Korean First Division in an effort to thrust a wedge between that force and the U. S. Army's famed 27th ("Wolfhound") Regiment on the west.

The returning American airmen said it looked like the North Koreans now had launched their biggest bid to break through all the way to Taegu, the important communications and supply hub at the northwest corner of the Allied defense rectangle.

The pilots said American and South Korean field pieces were replying to the enemy's artillery in a "tremendous" artillery duel that was churning up the northern approaches to Taegu.

The Red troops jumped off Sunday night from the village of Sakchok, below Kunwi. They smashed toward town and a half mile before they were stopped by the Korean war's first large-scale night-time air mission in support of ground forces.

U. S. B-26 light bombers and Mustang fighter-bombers, guided to their targets by American artillery firing white phosphorus shells, swooped down to strike against the oncoming foe at 11 Sunday night.

FOR FOUR hours the planes bombed, rocketed and strafed the Reds while the South Korean First Division absorbed the shock of the enemy attack and the U. S. 27th Regiment held its positions on the west. The foe was forced to pause before dawn Monday.

In the face of the enemy's renewed drive later in the day, the Wolfhound regiment sent a daylight raiding force of two tanks and an infantry platoon one mile behind the Communist lines.

This daring feat was announced in the 8th Army's Monday night bulletin which said the American force raided the village of Sinjamak, inflicted casualties on the enemy and destroyed two self-propelled guns, one anti-tank gun and a tank which already had been damaged.

Airmen returning from support missions over the south sector told of a "major" enemy vehicle and supply buildup west of Chinju to support the new Red attempt to break through to Masan and Pusan.

Since before dawn Saturday the enemy's advance forces had been constantly assaulting U. S. 25th Division positions near Haman, 45 miles west-northwest of Pusan and nine miles northwest of the gateway port of Masan.

Longshoremen Refuse To Handle Soviet Cargo

NEW YORK, Aug. 21 — One thousand longshoremen in New York said today they no longer will handle cargo bound for Soviet Russia or coming to the U. S. from Russia.

The firm stand, taken by Local 91 of the International Longshoremen's Association which works some of the most important piers on the Hudson River, grows out of the men's refusal to unload an 80-ton, $250,000 cargo of crabmeat from Russia.

The crabmeat came in Monday on the Cunard liner Parthia, which docked at Pier 56, North River at 14th St. She was scheduled to sail Tuesday for Boston where longshoremen also have said they will not touch it.

The crabmeat was received by Great Britain in a trade agreement with the Soviet whereby Britain sent machinery to Russia in exchange for badly needed Soviet lumber, it was learned.

Since the crabmeat proved too luxurious an item to fit in with the British austerity program, it was decided to export it to the United States.

A spokesman said the Cunard White Star Line and the U. S. lines would be hardest hit by the local's resolution, adopted at a meeting Monday night.

The local asserts that Cunard brings in considerable cargo from Russia and that the U. S. lines ship a great amount of machinery destined for Russia.

The local said it was hoped its stand would spread to all longshoremen on the east, gulf and west coasts.

Greek Evzone Soldiers Discard Skirted Uniforms

The skirted uniform of Greece's fierce Evzone soldiers—famous the world over—is on its way out after three thousand years.

The colorful "fermeli"—bolero and "foustanela"—the skirt of 400 pleats—are now only worn by King Paul's royal palace guard and the guards' special tailor, Evangelos Yorgoulas, is pessimistic about the future.

The Evzone regiments were abolished at the end of World War II for reasons of economy—some 30 to 40 yards of cloth go into the making of one of the distinctive uniforms.

Only the 200 men of the Palace Guard, all over six feet tall, remain to wear the costumes which was once the everyday dress of ordinary Greeks.

The short skirt is the descendant of that worn by the ancient Greeks who fought in the Trojan War and by later Greeks, little modified, for thousands of years thereafter.

Even the bolero jacket of the modern-day Evzone trooper can be traced to the metal breast plate carried by spear-wielding soldiers of ancient times.

Yorgoulas is virtually the last survivor of the once crowded trade of "helleno-rapies"—or tailor of Greek costumes—as opposed by "franco-rapies"—tailors who cut clothes along standard European lines.

The son and grandson of royal clothcutters, Yorgoulas is the only man in Greece who still has all of the intricacies of the Evzone apparel at his scissor's tips.

Temperance Head Has Safety Idea

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 — A temperance society official came up with a novel highway safety idea today.

W. A. Scharffenberg, executive secretary of the American Temperance Society, told the Potomac conference that all bars should have sobering up sections. He suggested that all motorists entering places where liquor is served surrender their keys to the bartender.

When the motorist is ready to leave, Scharffenberg said, he should be placed in the bar's annex, or "hangover lodge," until he is sober enough to drive. Then he could have his keys.

Scharffenberg said nothing about closing hours.

Nurses Withdraw Resignations

YOUNGSTOWN, Aug. 21—Twenty-six nurses at the Mahoning Tuberculosis Sanatorium are considering today a recommendation by the Ohio Civil Service Employees Association that they withdraw their mass resignations.

The association asked the nurses to give the hospital's board of trustees an opportunity to study changes.

The nurses resigned, effective tomorrow, after the resignation of Mary Taylor, superintendent of nurses. Dr. William Newcomb, medical director, also resigned.

The nurses said they resigned because of the institution's administration.

Business Leader With Great War Record Tells How Hadacol Has Rebuilt Him Physically

Was run-down, weak, after service in South Pacific due to deficiencies of Vitamins B1, B2, Iron and Niacin

Mr. Donald Hedberg, who resides at 1812 Parker in the fashionable Riverside District of Wichita, Kansas, has been an up-and-coming executive member of the staff of the great Wichita Eagle newspaper for over four years.

Mr. Hedberg has an enviable record of combat with the U. S. Army in the South Pacific in World War II. He is very active in civic affairs. And just as he was anxious to pitch in and do a job during the war—he now wants to help his fellow citizens who (like he was once) are physically run-down and weak due to lack of Vitamins B1, B2, Iron, and Niacin in their systems.

Here is Donald W. Hedberg's witnessed statement: "When I returned from service, I faced the problem of rebuilding myself physically. I was in a general run-down condition.

"In my present capacity of advertising salesman for Kansas' greatest newspaper, The Wichita Eagle, it's absolutely necessary that I have plenty of vitality—get up and go. I had real cause to worry. Nothing seemed to rebuild me constitutionally. Then a friend of mine on the national staff told me about HADACOL—he asked me to try at least five bottles. I'm on my fourth bottle and already I feel like my old self. I look forward to a day's work and go home—play with the children—work in the yard—fish until midnight! Thanks again to HADACOL, energy and vitality once again course through every fiber of my body. You bet, I too, am now a missionary for this great new HADACOL."

Trippers Told Remedys To Use For Heat Ills

Summer vacationists were warned today that two of the most common Summer illnesses—heat stroke and heat exhaustion—actually have little in common.

An article in the July issue of Goodhousekeeping magazine said that heat stroke is far more serious. It can be fatal or cause permanent injury to the nervous system.

On the other hand, heat exhaustion is rarely fatal to those under 60. If a sufferer goes to bed and rests, takes salt tablets and plenty of fluids, he will recover promptly.

Extremely important, according to the article, is the ability to recognize the symptoms of the two conditions and know the drastically different treatments.

A person suffering from heat stroke may have a headache, feel dizzy, stop perspiring and even lose consciousness. His skin will be flushed, his temperature soar and pulse irregular and feeble.

Heat exhaustion creates similar symptoms, but the sufferer will perspire profusely. Fainting is infrequent.

Treatment for heat stroke, the article said, must be prompt and a doctor or ambulance called. While waiting for professional assistance, the patient's body should be sprayed continuously with cold water and his skin massaged to maintain circulation.

Guess Who Pays For This One

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—Police Private Bernard Carroll left the engine running on his motorcycle when he parked it on a Potomac River bridge to direct traffic around an accident. The cycle slipped into gear and crashed into the side of the bridge.

A police wrecker was called, and while it was extricating the bike, it was struck by an automobile driven by John E. Bowman.

Total damage was $700. Bowman was charged with driving at an unreasonable rate of speed.

300,000 CAREER WOMEN
DELEGATES to the number of a b o u t 2,000, representing 20 different lands, are attending in London the Fifth Congress of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women. They are the representatives of approximately 300,000 career women, a number that will increase with the years.

While it is true that the number of women in high governmental posts has been relatively small proportionally to that of men, this is probably true because they did not concentrate their new freedom on quest for political office. The United States has had a few women Governors, one Cabinet member and a few members of both the Senate and the House of Representatives.

But in almost every field of business and professional life women here, and elsewhere, are taking high station. As Dame Caroline Haslitt, who years ago was an aid of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst in the fight for suffrage in Britain, told this congress of women:

"Today we find women not only in the professions and at the head of great business houses, but, in Britain, also in the policymaking sphere.

"But that progress brings with it enormous responsibilities. . . We will go back to our countries with the inspiration that we women are coming into a new world with terrific problems, but with great hopes that if all the ability of the world is used to solve these problems, they can be solved."

The London gathering, whose president is Miss Sally Butler, former public relations official of the United States Treasury, is no junket. To attend it delegates have traveled many thousands of miles, many at great personal inconvenience. They will return home hoping to ease world tension and better able to contribute to social and economic progress.

Perhaps Stalin jumped to conclusions after hearing some Americans say they would be willing to give the country back to the redskins.

Now that new vehicles are harder than ever to get, owners are again beginning to view the old heaps as rare gems of mechanical perfection.

With the draft setting in, the football coach is not spoofing when he talks blue

My New York
By MEL HEIMER

NEW YORK—They tell us that weekend is the time to rest, to read the funny papers and fall asleep in the afternoon on the living-room sofa. However, I didn't get much rest this past weekend because I kept thinking of the little old lady sitting in Yankee Stadium.

I heard about her from a friend of mine. They had a night game scheduled a little while ago at the Stadium, and along about 6 o'clock it started raining. Then it stopped and it started again, and so on and on. Night games are big money makers for the baseball people and they were determined to get this one in.

My friend called up the Stadium from downtown and asked what the score was. "The game is on," droned the phone operator mechanically.
He looked out of the phone booth and saw the rain coming down hard and he thought the operator was crazy, but he got on the subway and went uptown. When he got off, uptown, it was raining harder than ever, so he went into a phone booth in a drugstore and called the Stadium again.
"Well," the operator said, a little wistfully, "we hope to have a game."

"So do I," my friend said, "but I'm only a few blocks from the Stadium now and it's raining awfully hard."

"Well," she said, uncertainly, "everybody's here."

If everybody was there, he reasoned, he had better get there, too, so he sprinted through the rain with a newspaper over his head and he got to the Stadium. He had a field box but those are right in the line of the rain's fire, so he hung around the back of the grandstand, eating hot dogs and peanuts, and waiting for the rain to let up.

BUT NOT THAT NIGHT. By a few minutes before 9, it was raining harder than ever, and my friend took a look down at the visiting team's dugout and saw the players picking up their windbreakers and hats and heading down the exit door that goes under the stands to the dressing rooms.

These Days

Isaac Don Levine has been an anti-Communist since 1917. His most recent activity was the editorship of "Plain Talk," a magazine which published articles dealing with the Marxist conquest of the world. An anti-Marxist, or, if you please, an anti-Communist, is one who foresaw the menace to our civilization and our country of the application of the ideas of Karl Marx to Russia and such countries as Russia can control.
Levine was among the first publicly to recognize the menace and to describe its nature.

Senator Millard Tydings in his recent effort to whitewash the Communists and homosexuals in the State Department came upon the fact that Emmanuel S. Larsen, an employee of that department, who had been arrested in the Amerasia case, sold a story to Levine for "Plain Talk." On this subject, Tydings commented:

"It is also clear to us that Larsen was not the author of the quoted sections of the article, but that the allegations were made by Isaac Don Levine, and, as will later appear, possibly by Ralph De Toledano. The fact that these persons have been reported to us as professional 'anti-Communists,' whose incomes and reputation depend on the developing and maintaining of new Communist fears, while not deemed necessarily significant has not been altogether overlooked by the subcommittee."

Obviously editors edit. Neither Levine nor Toledano were permitted to testify before the Tydings Committee as to the amount of editing they did. Levine requested to be heard and was given assurance by Edward P. Morgan, committee counsel, that he would be heard and questioned. Levine offered to show all the documents in connection with Larsen to the committee, but Tydings would not permit it. Levine sent this telegram to Senator Tydings:

"In connection with Emmanuel Larsen's recent testimony in executive session before your committee reported in the press as repudiating his article on Amerasia case published in Plain Talk for October 1924 am prepared to submit stack of original writings and numerous letters by Larsen which utterly refute his alleged testimony and which in every major respect substantiate the charges made by him in 1946.
Your record would be manifestly incomplete and unfair to me without reference to this documentary and conclusive evidence."

He received no acknowledgment. Ty dings would not look at, much less put in the record, "stack of original writings and numerous letters" which Larsen sent to Levine.

- The facts are:
1. Larsen did not write the article in question.
 2. He was interviewed by Levine and to some extent by Toledano. Also he provided some documentary data.
 3. Levine from these notes prepared an article for his magazine which L a r s e n read, corrected in red ink and signed.
 4. Larsen put his signature on the first and last pages and initialed every page not only of the manuscript but of the yellow carbon copy.

The Causes of a Foot Irritation

By HERMAN M. BUNDESEN, M.D.

MOST any irritation of the feet is likely to be thought of as athlete's foot or ringworm, whereas some of the most severe of such irritations are due to substances in the footwear itself.

It is the aim of most shoe manufacturers, for instance, to construct water-repellent shoes.
Though a good thing in itself, this often makes trouble for people with sensitive skins, since it prevents the evaporation of sweat.
This is not only irritating in itself, but serves to draw other irritants from other parts of the shoe into the insole where they can come in contact with the feet. Thin socks, when damp, do not keep these irritating substances from reaching the skin.

Skin of Feet

Once the skin of the feet has developed a dermatitis or inflammation from such causes, infections of various kinds, including ringworm, are more likely to occur.

Three factors which seem to contribute to dermatitis from footwear are:

First, the linings of the shoes may be made up of various colored and coated types of leather and canvas. Adhesive material is used to fasten these linings to the upper part of the shoes. Heel pads are usually made up of a coated paper, and the insole materials

The Black Rose
by THOMAS B. COSTAIN

SYNOPSIS
Walter of Cyprus, an Oxford student in 1273, is the illegitimate son of the Earl of Leinster. After a fight with townpeople, Walter and another student, Tristram Griffin, decide to leave college and go to China.
Simultaneously, Walter learns his father has been murdered. Arriving in Antioch, Walter and Tristram call on Anthemius, a trader, in hope of joining a caravan to the east.
Among the gifts intended for Kublai Khan is a bevy of harem beauties.

CHAPTER SEVEN
FATHER THEODORE appeared in the doorway and beckoned to them. "Anthemius will see you now. He is in a rare mood. The worst thing he called me was an ill-begotten feabag. Usually he calls me by all manner of vile names and even accuses me of fleshly abominations. It is your luck, young men, to find him in such a pleasant humor."

"Who is that large woman?"
asked Walter, when they had left the room. "She impresses me as most sinister."

The priest's red turban nodded in full agreement. "Nothing too ill can be said of that one. She deals in olives, the woman trade, and Anthemius has engaged her to take charge of his party. It will be no easy task to keep eighty-one girls in hand, but Hoochin Ba'ahu is thoroughly capable of it. It will interest you to know that the number has been made up. Anthemius has just selected the last one. He is sending the most beautiful of his sisters."

"A sister!" cried Walter.
Father Theodore looked at him in surprise. "And why not? He could not pay the emperor a greater compliment than to send one of his own blood."

"But," protested Walter, "he's sending her into slavery. I find it hard to believe any man capable of such a monstrous thing."

"If she wins the Khan's fancy, she will live the rest of her life in the greatest magnificence. Her name is Maryam, and I hear she is a very great beauty indeed. The Khan is certain to notice her."

"Have her wishes been consulted?"

The little priest paused to enjoy a laugh. "Women must always obey the orders of the head of the household. What strange ideas you have! Does it matter so much when he has at least ten other sisters? His father had many wives, and so this one is no more than a half sister. And—with a sly look—"it has even been whispered that there were doubts about her paternity. It seems there was a male slave in the household"—he paused again, for this was the traditional opening to most obscene anecdotes in the East—"a Western soldier who had been captured in the fighting for Jerusalem. He was tall and handsome, and many of the women made eyes at him; that much is certain. Whether the girl's mother was one of them cannot be determined, but quite naturally Old Alexander, the father of An-themius, took the usual steps. He had the slave killed at once."

When they entered the room where Anthemius was to receive them he paid no attention to them at first. He was a young man of a very corpulent one, with a round bald head and a round white face in which heavy-lidded eyes smoldered sleepily. Off in a corner a trim girl with jet-black hair was roasting chestnuts on a charcoal brazier. Feeling one with a deft twist of her fingers, she dipped it in honey and powdered cassia bark and then, teetering over to her master on tiny feet, popped it into his mouth. Anthemius ground it between his large white teeth, snuffling with enjoyment as he did so.

It was not until he had finished the chestnut that he favored the visitors with a direct glance. Then he said something to the priest in an undertone which the latter translated for them with a pleased smirk.

"He asks, 'What do the Western dogs want?'"

"I know a little Greek," said Walter in that language. "Perhaps it would save time if I talked with him direct."

The sleepy eyes of the merchant slewed around. "It's unusual for a barbarian to speak the only civilized tongue," he grunted. "What are you, a half priest like this who is slaving little beasts?"

"I studied Greek at the University of Oxford," answered Walter, speaking slowly in an effort to make understanding easier. "My companion and I intend to go to Cathay, and we were told that Kyrios Anthemius was sending a special caravan here. We thought it might be arranged for us to accompany it."

"Are you prepared to pay hand-somerly?"

"We are poor students and cannot pay anything. But we could be very useful to you. My companion is a great archer and would be of help in guarding the caravan."

Anthemius appraised Tristram with a hostile eye. "I could hire a dozen fighting men for the cost of the food this great hulking ox would consume." His eyes turned back to Walter. "And what can you do? Before you try to tell me, I want you to understand that every minute of my day must yield me a profit. I will have my profit out of this even if it is necessary to have you stripped of all your clothes and thrown naked into the streets. So don't mount up the toll on yourselves. Be brief."

"No European has ever been to Cathay and returned alive," said Walter. "If we can do it we will be welcomed at every court for the tales we will have to tell. Consider the chance we would have to rouse interest in the treasures you will have for sale. My proposal is that we act as agents for you to the kings and rich men of Europe."

The girl returned with another chestnut. Anthemius consumed it thoughtfully.

"I have agents everywhere," he said, "Lombardy merchants, the shrewdest dealers I can find. What could a shaveling like you do for me that they can't?"

Walter laughed, realizing that the plan he had thought of when the war was first mentioned was taking hold on the merchant's mind. "Is it necessary to put the answer into words? Your dealers

The Causes of a Foot Irritation

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

MOST any irritation of the feet is likely to be thought of as athlete's foot or ringworm, whereas some of the most severe of such irritations are due to substances in the footwear itself.

It is the aim of most shoe manufacturers, for instance, to construct water-repellent shoes. Though a good thing in itself, this often makes trouble for people with sensitive skins, since it prevents the evaporation of sweat. This is not only irritating in itself, but serves to draw other irritants from other parts of the shoe into the insole where they can come in contact with the feet. Thin socks, when damp, do not keep these irritating substances from reaching the skin.

Skin of Feet

Once the skin of the feet has developed a dermatitis or inflammation from such causes, infections of various kinds, including ringworm, are more likely to occur.

Three factors which seem to contribute to dermatitis from footwear are:

First, the linings of the shoes may be made up of various colored and coated types of leather and canvas. Adhesive material is used to fasten these linings to the upper part of the shoes. Heel pads are usually made up of a coated paper, and the insole materials are cemented to the bottom of the shoe. All of these things make the shoe moisture-repellent and keep moisture from evaporating.

Secondly, water-proof materials in contact with the feet cause the skin to become sticky, particularly in hot weather. Sweating is continuous on the soles of the feet, which means more moisture.

Pressure on Skin

The third factor of importance is pressure on the skin made by straps and laces, which means that irritating materials may more easily enter the skin.

In these instances of dermatitis of the feet, a cure can often be brought about merely by having the patient go barefoot. In such cases, an effort should be made to find the substances to which the patient is sensitive, so that contact with them can be eliminated.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

L. W.: What could cause night sweats?

Answer: There are many causes of night sweats. The most common one, of course, is sleeping with too many covers. They are often due to the presence of a chronic infection in the body. Tuberculosis is a common cause. A physical examination should be made in order to determine the cause of the trouble.

Timid salesmen who give up too easily may learn a valuable lesson from a little poem circulated by Wall Street's Douglas Laird. It's called "The Secret of Closing Sales":

He asked if she ever could love him. She answered him, no, on the spot. He asked if she ever could love him. She assured him again she could not. He asked if she ever could love him. She laughed till his blushes he hid. He asked if she ever could love him. By gosh, she admitted she did. Cynical story from Hollywood: Two husbands met at a bar on Wilshire Boulevard. "How long have you been married?" asked one. "Two days," sighed the other. "Ho, ho," laughed the first husband bitterly. "Wait till you've been married two weeks!"

The Black Rose

SYNOPSIS
Walter of Gurnie, an Oxford student in 1273, is the illegitimate son of the Earl of Leinster. After a fight with townspeople, Walter and his brother, Tristram, decide to leave college and go to China. Simultaneously, Walter learns his father has been murdered. Arriving in Antioch, Walter and Tristram call on Antheus, a trader, in hope of joining a caravan to the east. Among the gifts intended for Kublai Khan is a bevy of narrow beauties.

CHAPTER SEVEN

FATHER THEODORE appeared in the doorway and beckoned to them. "Antheus will see you now. He is in a rare mood. The worst thing he called me was an ill-begotten feebag. Usually he calls me by all manner of vile names and even accuses me of fleshly abominations. It is your luck, young men, to find him in such a pleasant humor."

"Who is that large woman?" asked Walter, when they had left the room. "She impresses me as most sinister."

The priest's red turban nodded in full agreement. "Nothing ill can be said of that one. She deals in oils, the woman trade, and Antheus has engaged her to take charge of his party. It will be no easy task to keep eighty-one girls in hand, but Hoochin B'awahu is thoroughly capable of it. It will interest you to know that the number has been made up. Antheus has just selected the last one. He is sending the most beautiful of his sisters."

"A sister?" cried Walter. Father Theodore looked at him in surprise. "And why not? He could not pay the emperor a greater compliment than to send one of his own blood."

"But," protested Walter, "he's sending her into slavery. I find it hard to believe any man capable of such a monstrous thing."

"If she wins the Khan's fancy, she will live the rest of her life in the greatest magnificence. Her name is Maryam, and I hear she is a very great beauty indeed. The Khan is certain to notice her."

"Have her wishes been consulted?"

The little priest paused to enjoy a laugh. "Women must always obey the orders of the head of the household. What strange ideas you have! Does it matter so much when he has at least ten other sisters? His father had many wives, and so this one is no more than a half sister. And—with a sly look—"it has even been whispered that there were doubts about her paternity. It seems there was a male slave in the household—he paused again, for this was the traditional opening to most obscene anecdotes in the East—"a Western soldier who had been captured in the fighting for Jerusalem. He was tall and handsome, and many of the women made eyes at him; that much is certain. Whether the girl's mother was one of them cannot be determined, but quite naturally Alexander, the father of Antheus, took the usual steps. He had the slave killed at once."

When they entered the room where Antheus was to receive them he paid no attention to them at first. He was a young man and a very corpulent one, with a round bald head and a round white face.

"THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE FOR FAIR DEALING"

By MEL HEIMER

Mel Heimer

NEW YORK—They tell us that weekend is the time to rest, to read the funny papers and fall asleep in the afternoon on the living-room sofa. However, I didn't get much rest this past weekend because I kept thinking of the little old lady sitting in Yankee Stadium.

I heard about her from a friend of mine. They had a night game scheduled a little while ago at the Stadium, and along about 6 o'clock it started raining. Then it stopped and it started again, and so on and on. Night games are big money makers for the baseball people and they were determined to get this one in.

My friend called up the Stadium from downtown and asked what the score was. "The game is on," droned the phone operator mechanically.

He looked out of the phone booth and saw the rain coming down hard and he thought the operator was crazy. But he got on the subway anyway and went uptown. When he got off, it was raining harder than ever, so he went into a phone booth in a drugstore and called the Stadium again.

"Well," the operator said, a little wistfully, "we hope to have a game."

"So do I," my friend said, "but I'm only a few blocks from the Stadium now and its raining awfully hard."

"Well," she said, uncertainly, "everybody's here."

If everybody was there, he reasoned, he had better get there, too, so he sprinted through the rain with a newspaper over his head and he got to the Stadium. He had a field box but those are right in the line of the rain's fire, so he hung around the back of the grandstand, eating hot dogs and peanuts and waiting for the rain to let up.

BUT NOT THAT NIGHT. By a few minutes before 9, it was raining harder than ever, and my friend took a look down at the visiting team's dugout and saw the players picking up their windbreakers and hats and heading down the exit door that goes under the stands to the dressing rooms.

"That's all," he said to himself, and sure enough, a few minutes later they turned off the record and the man said over the public-address system that there wouldn't be any game tonight.

Scorecards cost a dime or 15 cents; I forget which. After the announcement, a guy came hustling for the exits yelling "Scorecards—five cents!", and everybody laughed, and pretty soon everybody started heading for the gates and the subways and home.

My friend is one of those persons who doesn't like to get shoved around in crowds, so he just sat there in the back of the grandstand and waited for everyone to leave. You know how an idle mind works.

He got up and tried different seats in the grandstand, seeing how the perspective was from each one, and by that time it had stopped raining so he went down to his field box and tried that, and he decided he would have seen the game just fine.

The big lights that flood the field for the game began blinking out, and the Stadium got dark and deserted looking. Pretty soon the joint was virtually empty. It was kind of peaceful there, and my friend just sat some more, until he felt somebody in back of him. The way you do. So he turned around and looked, and there about 10 rows back was the little lady.

SHE MUST HAVE BEEN ABOUT 85, and she just sat there tensely, with her elbows tucked into her sides, and looked straight ahead, out at the ball field. There wasn't anybody there. It was almost like a dream, but my friend blinked twice and she was still there.

What probably has happened was that she never had been to a ball game before and somebody, maybe her grandson, had taken her, sat her down and told her he'd call for her when the game was over.

My friend looked at her. "Hey, mom," he called up. "Go home. No game. No game tonight." My friend is not terribly refined, but his heart is in the right place. She just kept looking, paying no attention.

Finally my friend went up the aisle and toward the exits himself. "Mom," he said, stopping by her section and calling over again. "No game. Honest. They ain't gonna play." But she just sat there, staring. He could see her shoulders move once in a while from breathing, so he knew she wasn't dead. He shrugged and went up the aisle, and when he got to the gate, he turned once and looked. There she was, the little old lady—just about the only person in the darkened, damp ballpark, still sitting, still waiting for God knows what. Then he left.

The next day he told me about it, and I've been wondering ever since whether the little old lady still is sitting there. If it were the Giants' ballpark she had been sitting in, maybe I could understand it. But the Yankees. How can she stand it?

Tarleton School Alumni Hold Fifth Annual Meet At County Home Sunday

Mrs. Hedges Is Oldest Member

About 100 alumni and their families were present at the fifth annual reunion of the old Tarleton school when Mr. and Mrs. James Mowery were hosts for the occasion on the grounds of Pickaway County Home Sunday.

The affair started with a basket dinner served on the lawn at noon and attended by 75 persons. Other alumni joined the group during the afternoon for the program and election of officers.

Frank L. Wharton of Ashville was elected president and O. S. Mowery of near Tarleton was chosen secretary-treasurer.

Oldest member of the alumni present was Mrs. Frank Hedges. The entertainment included readings by Mrs. Cliff Hedges of Washington Township and Mrs. Forest Sloop Davis of Green Camp.

Various alumni members present were called upon for extemporaneous speeches. Charles Kreider of Logan told of his experiences both as a pupil in Tarleton school 61 years ago and as a teacher.

Howard Stroup, last high school teacher in the school also spoke.

Others called upon were the host, James Mowery, H. E. Defenbaugh, George Wharton, Ray Spangler, O. S. Mowery, Oscar Root, Harold Defenbaugh and Mrs. William Long.

Marcia Wharton sang "Cruising Down the River." Concluding the program were two selections sung by the entire group, "Till We Meet Again" and "Auld Lang Syne." Mowery served as accompanist on his guitar.

After the program the host conducted a tour of the home and dairy barns.

Bridge Party Is Given Here

Mrs. Donald Henry of Lawrence, Kan., was honor guest at a two table bridge party given by Mrs. C. Ray Barnhart Jr., of Guilford road Friday evening.

Guests were Circleville friends of Mrs. Henry, the former Wanda Barnhart.

The Barnhart home was decorated in arrangements of seasonal flowers for the occasion. The hostess served a dessert course at small tables in the living room.

Juvenile Grange Members Meet

Juvenile Grange members were responsible for the program recently when Saltcreek Valley Grange met in regular session with Russell Anderson, worthy master, presiding.

Readings were given by Philip Judy, Eva Ralston, Larry Beougher, Donnie DeLong and Gerald Ralston.

A piano duet was presented by Larry and Dwight Beougher. Giving piano solos were Donna

Pitching Horseshoes

By BILLY ROSE

Last Saturday, Eleanor and I herded our week-end guests into the midget movie theatre in our barn at Mt. Kisco, and ran off "Three Little Words," a Technicolor tap-and-tuner which stars Fred Astaire and Red Skelton.

This new M-G-M musical is based on the careers of Harry Ruby and the late Bert Kalmar, a couple of Tin Pan Alley cats who used to be as close to me as the chin under my chin.

As the title card and screen credits flickered on, I was plenty apprehensive about what I was going to see. Last summer I had squirmed through "Oh You Beautiful Doll," the celluloid biography of Fred Fisher, another song-writing buddy of mine, and I had resented its inane and inaccurate portrayal of an amusing and endearing man.

And the year before, I had been left more overwrought than overwhelmed by Hollywood's treatment of the George Gershwin and Cole Porter stories.

What, I asked myself, are they going to do to Harry and Bert, a pair of good-natured hunches whose lives, as I knew them, had been singularly undramatic? In Reel One, would they enlist in the Foreign Legion, and in Reel Seven, swim the English Channel because a Certain Girl was on the other side?

WELL, I'M happy to report that, for once, the gold-plated popcorn machine called Hollywood didn't let me down. Although "Three Little Words" does take a few minor liberties with the facts, it manages to stick pretty close to the unshattering truth, and the end-result is a sweetie-pie of a picture which hit me squarely where I reminisce.

After I saw it, I couldn't help but wonder how it ever got to be made. The Kalmar-Ruby song catalogue is respectable enough, but hardly in a class with those of Romberg, Friml or Youmans, song writers whose life stories have so far been bypassed by the movie moguls.

Who was the gent on the Coast who was venturesome enough to pass up the heady stuff of which celluloid dreams are made for a simple story about two sweet guys? Who was bright enough to realize that such a story, if told without too many trimmings, would be a welcome antidote to the snarl-and-slash epics currently cluttering up our screens?

BY DINT of considerable master-minding and one quick phone call, I discovered it was producer Jack Cummings, a sweet guy on his own who is married to Jerome Kern's daughter.

When the studio gave him the go-ahead signal, I further learned, he went out of his way to enlist the services of several other what's-all-the-shootin'-for-gents: George Wells, the scripter, and Fred Astaire and Red Skelton who play Kalmar and Ruby.

The performance of Fred Astaire—well, what can one say about the great nimble-foot of our generation except that when he is in motion this is still the best of all possible worlds?

As for the performance of Red Skelton, I have a plenty to say. This comic has never been my cup of oolong, and his mirthful muggings have generally left me unmoved.

HIS IMPERSONATION of Ruby, however, is a restrained and believable one, and for the first time I found myself warming up to him. As Deems Taylor, one of our guests, put it, "Whoever thought Skelton was an actor?"

"Three Little Words," I hasten to add, isn't the greatest movie that ever came out of Hollywood.

Nevertheless, it's head and hip-boots above most of its current competition, and if you feel like having your nostalgia nudged, I recommend its 90 minutes of unadorned and unabashed sentiment.

17 Are Rescued From Cruiser In Lake Erie

CLEVELAND, Aug. 21—Seventeen persons were rescued from a 38-foot cabin cruiser yesterday after it struck a log in Lake Erie and sank in six feet of water about 50 feet from the shore.

John Acocella, 38, of Lakewood said that the cruiser Barnacle, chartered by the group, consisting of seven young couples, listed and sank on its port side within 10 minutes after ramming the log.

Arthur A. Gerlach, 25, of Lakewood came to the rescue of the 17 in a work boat owned by the J. and A. Thomson Co., ship chandlers.

Fifteen of the 17 were taken to the coast guard station at the mouth of the Cuyahoga River.

Acocella and John Bogusky, 42, owners of the boat, remained aboard until a coast guard cutter reached them.

Three flares were set off by Bogusky when the barnacle began to sink and Gerlach, spotting the flares, rushed to the scene.

Ko-Red Casualties Set At 50,000

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—The Army has estimated officially that the North Korean Communists have suffered 50,000 casualties and the South Koreans more than 37,000 casualties in eight weeks of war.

An Army spokesman indicated at the same time that no totals on American casualties will be released in the future, except when a phase of the campaign has ended and a considerable time elapsed.

The estimate of Communist casualties was 19,000 higher than a previous figure of 31,000 two weeks ago. The Army gave no breakdown on the killed and wounded the enemy is believed to have suffered.

Burglars Enter 10-Inch Opening

COLUMBUS, Aug. 21—Some acrobatic burglars slid 10 feet down a chimney into Gray's drug store in central Columbus over the weekend, carted a floor safe to the basement, cracked open the box and escaped with $2,500.

Police theorized it would take at least two men to carry the safe and they must have been small. The opening through which they entered is only eight to 10 inches across.

Korean War Brings Hike
In Civil Air Patrol

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 21—Since the outbreak of war in Korea, enrollments have rocketed to a new all-time peak in the Civil Air Patrol, the volunteer civilian pilots' organization which helped fight German submarines off our coasts in the early years of World War II.

Today the flying "minute men" of the CAP are giving basic training directly to over 22,000 cadet members, aged 15 to 18. Besides this their ground school program is installed as an accredited course in hundreds of public high schools.

They are in training themselves and new members for

COMMANDER of the armed forces in the territory of Alaska, Lt. Gen. Nathan Twining has put anti-aircraft and Air Force units under a "precautionary alert" as a result of the war in South Korea. He emphasized "there is no cause for alarm" in instructions to base commanders in the area. (International) civilian defense problems, participation in air-search rescue work and anti-sabotage patrol.

Total membership of CAP had topped the 175,000 mark by July 1, and is still climbing. There is a rapid shift of inactive senior members into active status again, according to a defense study report.

THE CAP radio communications network, available for either civilian or military emergencies, has expanded from 538 stations thinly covering some two-thirds of the area of continental United States in 1948, to approximately 6,500 stations blanketing the United States and extending to Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico. The network is equipped with government surplus radio telephone materiel, serviced and operated by CAP instructors and their cadet radio communications students.

Some 6,000 CAP cadets are attending summer encampments at 32 Air Force bases this month for intensive study of jet engine operation and maintenance, radar detection work, and other ground school training subjects. The cadets are ferried in Air Force transport planes from their home states to their encampment locations, and back again.

In 1948 Congress gave CAP permanent status as an auxiliary of the Air Force, which provides an AF-CAP liaison headquarters with a compact Air Force staff in each state to coordinate activities of the civilian volunteer organization with those of the military arm.

Red Appeasement
Fatal, Japs Say

TOKYO, Aug. 21—The Japanese government has declared that appeasement of Communism anywhere in Asia would be "nothing less than suicide" for the democratic West.

A White Paper on the Korean war accused Soviet Russia and the Chinese Communists of "instigating" the invasion of South Korea.

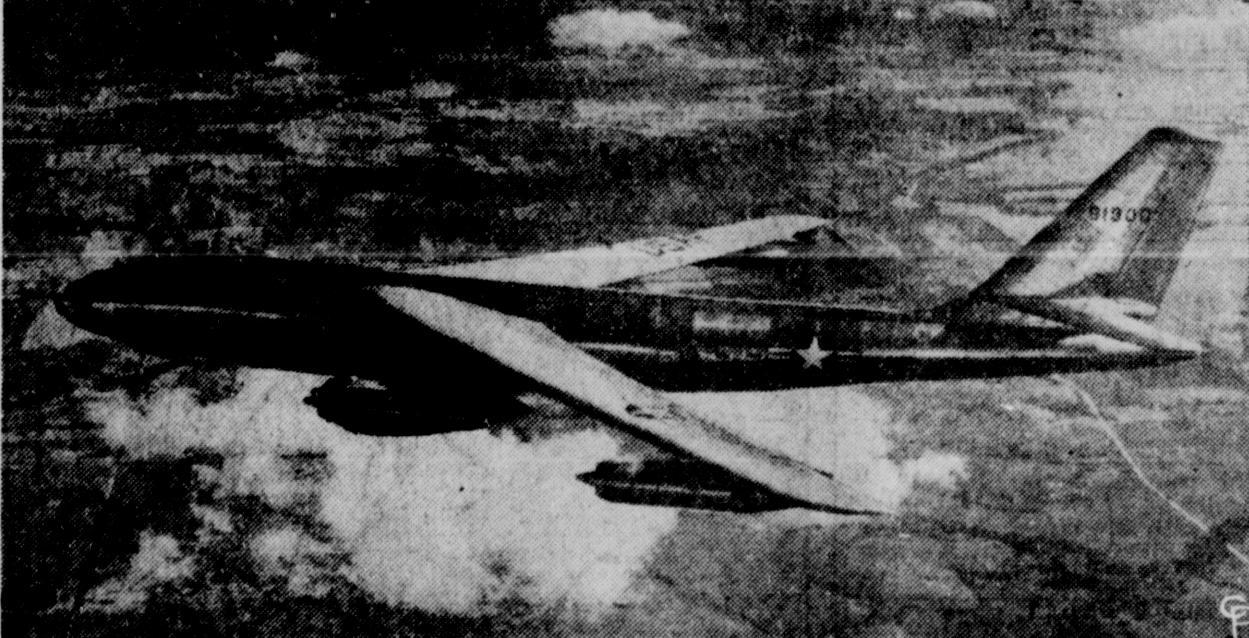

The attack on Korea, the paper charged, may be a prelude to action against Japan which Russia and Red China view as a "special prize."

The White Paper also held the Soviets responsible for delaying a peace treaty for Japan. It accused Russia of plotting to use the negotiations as a "platform for Communist propaganda and infiltration tactics."

Fears of Communist sabotage and disorder within Japan were also expressed. Such sabotage, already under way before Gen. Douglas MacArthur banned Japanese Communists, was termed "not a diminished threat but on the contrary likely to assume an organized form as time goes on."

Elinor Williams'
Teen Tips

Why do some girls have dates and others none? The answer might be a simpler one than you think. Here's a letter from a girl who never has a date and wonders what to do about it:—

"I am 16 years of age and I have a problem. Many boys call me "good looking" and they seem to think I'm nice—but they don't ask me out on dates. All my girl friends have told me that their boy friends think I'm cute and nice. Why then don't boys take me out? I've seen many girls homelier than I going with boys. Please help me with this troublesome problem."

Your only "problem" might be that you just haven't got started dating yet. Boys have a strange way of wanting to date only girls who already have dates, for some mysterious reason. They think you're "cute" and "nice," so once you're seen dating, you'll probably have smooth sailing in the date department.

Ask one of your girl friends to arrange a double date for you—a boy you know or a blind date. Try to arrange to go to a school affair or to the local movie where others will see you. So it will gradually be known that you're date-able. Also invite a girl friend, her date and a boy you know to your home some evening for fun. . . games, make candy or popcorn and dance if possible. If you don't know a boy to invite, ask them to bring one.

Bowling, tennis, skating, etc., are good for blind dates, because they make it easier to get acquainted. . . there's less time to be shy or embarrassed when you're busy playing a game or having fun at your favorite sport.

For tips on the easy, correct care of oily skin with blackheads or pimples, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Elinor Williams at this paper.

Aid Is Sent To Disabled Ship

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 21—Two destroyers and a Coast Guard cutter today were speeding to the aid of the disabled S. S. South Bend Victory, helpless from a battering by a raging gale on the fringe of a 140-mile-an-hour hurricane.

The rescue craft were expected to reach the side of the stricken vessel by daybreak.

The crippled ship radioed an SOS Sunday morning after it was caught in the hurricane's wake about 300 miles off the coast of Cape Henry, Va., and the rescue craft were dispatched to the scene.

In its radio appeal, the ship reported that winds had smashed all life boats and crippled the engines.

Coast Guard officials said the vessel would be towed to port.

IMPERIAL...is the word for it!

"Imperial," says Webster, means "superior excellence." IMPERIAL, says Chrysler, is this luxurious new car that excels anything on wheels in the sheer exquisiteness of its styling. Come look inside this reigning beauty... look at the lavish wool broadcloth fabrics, tastefully combined with topgrain leathers. Look at the lovely color harmonies, the soft sheen of the butler-finished chrome. Consider the advantages of Fluid Drive... exclusive new automatic transmission... Waterproof Ignition... Full Flow Oil Filter... High Compression Spitfire Engine... electric window lifts... the CLEARBAC rear window for exceptional driver vision... and dozens more. Surely, of all the world's fine automobiles, only the Chrysler CROWN IMPERIAL, this car's running mate, achieves the same aristocratic distinction. Come see the flawless workmanship, the fine materials, the superb Chrysler engineering... and you'll agree that no other car, at any price, compares with the Chrysler IMPERIAL. Inside or out, there is no finer car in America!

ONLY THE CHRYSLER IMPERIAL offers you this absolutely unique system of window control! Each window has its own separate electric motor... each one can be raised and lowered independently from the driver's seat or at the window itself. And that's not all! So many other deluxe features... the kind you think of as being in the "special order, extra cost" category... are STANDARD EQUIPMENT on the Chrysler Imperial. For example: armrests on all four doors... foam rubber seat cushions and seat backs... double-width center armrests in front as well as rear seats... stainless steel wheel covers... white sidewall low pressure tires... carpeted luggage compartment Full flow oil filter and many other engine features! Yes, you get all these extras as standard equipment with your beautiful new Chrysler Imperial.

Inside and out... it has no equal at any price...

Korean War Brings Hike In Civil Air Patrol

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 21—Since the outbreak of war in Korea, enrollments have rocketed to a new all-time peak in the Civil Air Patrol, the volunteer civilian pilots' organization which helped fight German submarines off our coasts in the early years of World War II.

Today the flying "minute men" of the CAP are giving basic training directly to over 22,000 cadet members, aged 15 to 18. Besides this their ground school program is installed as an accredited course in hundreds of public high schools.

They are in training themselves and new members for

COMMANDER of the armed forces in the territory of Alaska, Lt. Gen. Nathan Twining has put anti-aircraft and Air Force units under a "precautionary alert" as a result of the war in South Korea. He emphasized "there is no cause for alarm" in instructions to base commanders in the area. (International)

civilian defense problems, participation in air-search rescue work and anti-sabotage patrol.

Total membership of CAP had topped the 175,000 mark by July 1, and is still climbing. There is a rapid shift of inactive senior members into active status again, according to a defense study report.

THE CAP radio communications network, available for either civilian or military emergencies, has expanded from 538 stations thinly covering some two-thirds of the area of continental United States in 1948, to approximately 6,500 stations blanketing the United States and extending to Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico. The network is equipped with government surplus radio telephone materiel, serviced and operated by CAP instructors and their cadet radio communications students.

Some 6,000 CAP cadets are attending summer encampments at 32 Air Force bases this month for intensive study of jet engine operation and maintenance, radar detection work, and other ground school training subjects. The cadets are ferried in Air Force transport planes from their home states to their encampment locations, and back again.

In 1948 Congress gave CAP permanent status as an auxiliary of the Air Force, which provides an AF-CAP liaison headquarters with a compact Air Force staff in each state to coordinate activities of the civilian volunteer organization with those of the military arm.

Red Appeasement Fatal, Japs Say

TOKYO, Aug. 21—The Japanese government has declared that appeasement of Communism anywhere in Asia would be "nothing less than suicide" for the democratic West.

A White Paper on the Korean war accused Soviet Russia and the Chinese Communists of "instigating" the invasion of South Korea.

The attack on Korea, the paper charged, may be a prelude to action against Japan which Russia and Red China view as a "special prize."

7 Murdered GI's Found Beside Korean Roadway

WITH THE FIRST U. S. CAV- alry Division, Korea, Aug. 21—The bodies of seven more murdered American soldiers, their faces burned black from a gasoline fire, were found beside a battle-scarred Korean roadway.

The discovery raised to 39 the number of known war atrocity deaths charged to North Korean Communists in the past two days.

Two accused North Korean executioners of 32 other captive doughboys were positively identified as the mass killers by three of five Americans who escaped from a "gully of death."

The three Americans, one of them a wounded, red-haired GI lying on a stretcher, picked out the two North Koreans from a group of six Korean Reds on stretchers in a field hospital tent.

THE NORTH Koreans were Lt. Kim Kwong Taek and Pvt. Chon Pyong Tak. Kim has a broken leg and Chon an arm wound.

They were pointed out by Cpl. James Rudd of Salsersville, Ky.; Cpl. Robert Day, Jr., of El Paso, Tex., and by the wounded

GI who raised a bandaged hand and said: "I am positive they are the ones."

Kim was named as the one who gave the mass execution order after the 32 captured Americans had been stripped down to their undershorts and their hands bound behind their backs with telephone wire.

The seven bodies found today were lying near two tanks which were knocked out Wednesday in the battle for strategic Hill 303 near Waegwan, 12 miles north-west of Taegu.

Sullen, determined anger spread among First Division cavalrymen as news of the mass murders reached them.

Pfc. Wayne Evans, of Wilkes Barre, Pa., a veteran of the European war, commented: "There was nothing like this in Europe except on the bulge with Nazi SS troops. If the North Koreans are guilty I don't see why they are going to try them."

Now all this sums up to the fact that Senator Millard Tyding's investigation and report are a hoax upon the American people. It is astonishing that at a time like this, when we are actually at war over this question, a senatorial committee would stoop to this sort of thing.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—The United States took strong diplomatic steps today to slap down world Communism.

U. S. Ambassador Charles M. Spofford, Secretary of State Acheson's deputy on the North Atlantic Council, was flying to London to try to urge Western European countries to re-arm rapidly.

Spofford was accompanied by Theodore Achilles, chief of the Western European Division of the State Department.

At the same time, these developments were noted:

1. Top foreign policy advisers of the U. S., Britain and France will meet in Washington Aug. 30. They will discuss the problems which will confront the foreign ministers of the three countries at their meeting in New York on Sept. 12.

2. The psychological warfare program in Korea will be stepped up, according to an announcement by Assistant Secretary of State for Public Affairs Edward W. Barrett.

State Fair Gets Stocked Stream COLUMBUS, Aug. 21—One of the newest additions to the Ohio State Fair this year will be an 80-foot, fast flowing stream, stocked with fish and laid out in simulated natural surroundings.

The Department of Natural Resources, and its seven divisions, is planning a much larger and more inclusive show according to Exhibit Director George R. Emmett.

Occupying the old site of the wildlife division, will be a large main tent through which will course a stream flowing at the rate of 700 gallons per minute. Two smaller tents will house other exhibits.

Yankees Hand Defeat To Athletics

DiMaggio, Ford Fashion The Win

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—There was double cause for jubilation in the New York Yankee camp today, a present-day DiMaggio of old and young Ford with a future.

Comeback Joe, back in the lineup after a week of forced idleness, was toting a bat once again packed with authority and Rookie Ed Ford was injecting added strength into Casey Stengel's mound corps.

What it all meant to the rest of the American League, and the Detroit Tigers in particular, was that the Yankees plan to be around a while before surrendering their flag franchise.

The 35-year-old veteran and the 21-year-old rookie got together yesterday to help fashion a pair of 6 to 4 and 5 to 2 wins over the Philadelphia Athletics.

This double triumph strengthened New York's hold on second place and cut Detroit's advantage to three games.

DiMaggio blasted a three-run homer (No. 23) in the first inning of the opener to help Ed Lopat gain his fourteenth win of the year. The Clipper also collected a couple of singles to continue his torrid pace at the plate.

AN EX-YANKEE and an ex-Tiger figured in Detroit's splitting with the St. Louis Browns.

Aaron Robinson, the former bomber, singled with two down in the ninth inning to drive home a run that won the opener, 5 to 4 for the Bengals.

Then Stubby Overmire, the former Tiger, came back in the nightcap to hurl the Browns to a 6 to 2 triumph.

Cleveland's Indians fell four games behind by dropping a pair to the Chicago White Sox, 2 to 1 and 6 to 5.

Bill Wight tossed a five-hitter at the Tribe in the opener, which was won by Marv Rickert's two-run homer off Bub Lemon.

The Cleveland ace suffered his seventh loss against eighteen wins.

Billy Pierce allowed the Tribe three homers in the second game but each came with the bases empty. Al Rosen, Joe Gordon and Thurman Tucker all connected. Rosen's was his 33rd of the season.

Pierce, who gave up six hits in all, recorded his ninth win when Gus Zernial circuit clouted in the seventh.

The Washington-Boston game was rained out.

INCLEMENT weather wiped out the "meat" of the National League activity.

The Philadelphia-New York and Boston-Brooklyn twin bills bowed out to the elements.

Thus, Philadelphia's whiz kids remain five and a half games ahead of second place Brooklyn.

Stan Musial brought the St. Louis Cardinals to within seven games of the Saweyermen by driving home all his team's runs in a 3 to 2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Musial accounted for three of the Redbirds' seven hits and enabled Lefty Howie Pollet to gain his twelfth victory. Pollet allowed seven hits.

The Chicago Cubs moved down the Pittsburgh Pirates twice, 4 to 2 and 5 to 2 behind Paul Minner and Frank Hiller.

Andy Pafko's 29th homer helped Minner get the nod in the first game and Hiller won his ninth and fifth straight in the afterpiece.

Ralph Kiner provided the Bucs with their sole bright spot. The Pittsburgh muscle man smashed his 37th homer with one man on in the first inning of the second game.

It was his fifth round-tripper in his last seven games and ninth for the month. Kiner moved eight games and seven days ahead of this 1949 pace when he halloped 54 homers.

Merchants Handed 10-7 Defeat By Pleasantville

Circleville Merchants baseball team was handed a 10-7 loss Sunday at the home of the Tri-County League-leading Pleasantville aggregation.

Circleville, with only nine men on hand to play the game, opened the game strongly with a four-run advantage in the first frame of the match when Shortstop Abe Rihl connected for a grand-slam homer into left field.

The Merchants held onto its 4-0 lead until the fifth inning, when Pleasantville scored a single tally and followed it up in the sixth inning with a barrage of five runs to lead by a 6-4 count.

The locals came to within one run of the lead in the seventh by scoring a single, although Pleasantville clinched the win in the eighth with four runs.

Pitcher Jack Hix starred both on the mound and at the plate for the Merchants in the contest.

Hix rapped out four hits for five trips to the plate during the match, one a homerun in the ninth inning with two men out and one man on base.

On the mound he gave up only nine hits while fanning 12 of the Pleasantvillers.

The Merchants will play host to Rushville in Ted Lewis Park next Sunday. Line score of its loss to Pleasantville follows:

Ashville Reds Are Walloped By Grove City

Ashville Reds baseball team was blasted downward in Heart of Ohio League standings Sunday when invading Grove City Dodgers handed them a 17-6 walloping.

The loss pushed the Reds down into a tie for the league leadership with Chillicothe Meads, duplicating the first round of league play.

In the first round, the Ashvillers were forced to meet the Meads in a playoff for the loop title, winning the title by a fair margin. A win Sunday would have given the Reds undisputed claim to the season championship.

Grove City sluggers bounced into the lead by a 2-0 count in the first inning of the Sunday upset, although the Reds knotted the count in the second frame with a brace of tallies.

The invaders clinched the win during a disastrous third inning scoring spree which netted them a total of eight runs, while in later innings they added the final seven markers for their 17-run total. Ashville scored two more runs in each the fourth and seventh innings to wind up scoring.

Line score of the Ashville upset follows:

Exhibition Game Is Scheduled

BOWLING GREEN, Aug. 21—There's a story going the rounds that Coach Paul Brown likes to win so much that he's miserable even when his captain loses the toss of the coin at the beginning of any game.

And, if such is the case, the Detroit Lions will have to show a better than average attack Friday night when they face the Cleveland Browns in an exhibition game at Akron.

The Browns have already knocked off the Green Bay Packers and the Baltimore Colts in pre-season contests.

Although the Browns didn't match their offensive display in the Packers game, they rolled over the Colts, 34-7, Saturday night in Cincinnati.

A pair of touchdowns in the first period and two more in the final chapter along with two field goals by Lou "The Toe" Groza accounted for the Browns' scoring.

Fuchs Shatters Own Record

VISBY, Sweden, Aug. 21—Jim Fuchs, Yale's big muscle man, edged ever closer today toward his 60-foot goal but had to be content with merely shattering his own unofficial world record for the 16-pound shot-put.

The Eli husky came within 15 inches of his ambition yesterday with a heave of 58 ft. 9 9-64 inches. His best previous toss had been 58 ft. 5 1/2 inches at Los Angeles last April.

The official record was set in 1948 by Michigan's Charley Fomville with a 58 ft. 3/4 inches fling. Fuchs has bettered this mark several times but his efforts have yet to be entered in the books as official.

FORMER TENNIS champions, Don Budge (background) and Sidney Wood have a new line now—a clothes line. The two have a dry cleaning and laundry business in New York and when they get a few spare moments they go up on the roof and play a little tennis. (International)

New Midget Auto Record Is Set

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 21—Tony Bettenhausen of Tinley Park, Ill., was credited today with setting a new track record when he thundered to victory in the 100-mile National A.A.A. midget auto championship race at Milwaukee Sunday. One driver was killed in the race.

Bettenhausen clipped nearly two minutes off the old mark by winning the event in one hour, 10 minutes, 41.33 seconds. The previous record of 1:12:19.7 was set last year by Sam Hanks of Glendale, Cal.

Chuck Stevens and Bill Vukovich, both of Fresno, Cal., finished second and third.

Adkins Couple Wins Golf Title In Meet Saturday

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Adkins won the family low ball golf tournament championship last week end in Pickaway Country Club.

The couple earned the title with a 9 and 8 victory Saturday over Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wantz in the finals of the contest. A total of 32 couples participated in the match.

Meanwhile, "ringer" tournaments for both men and women opened simultaneously Monday at the local Club.

Manager-pro Ed Amey said he expects about 80 members to compete in the two tournaments which promise trophies to the winners.

Amey said the "ringer" tournament consists of nine rounds of golf for each contestant. Each member will turn in his lowest score on any one hole during the nine rounds, so that he should have the lowest score possible in numerical order for each of the nine holes at the end of the match.

"It gets pretty tough near the end of the match," Amey said, "when the player must shoot his best for a low score on a specific hole."

The pro said he expects about 50 men and 30 women to compete in the tournaments. John Woods was last year's "ringer" tourney winner.

Local Shooters Score 3,138

Pickaway County Rifle and Pistol Club registered a total of 3,138 points Sunday here in the final team match in Central Ohio Rifle League competition for the Summer.

Pacing the local team was D. J. Jacoby, who registered a 395 iron sight mark and a 397 any sight tally.

Also shooting high for the locals in the final team match were Cecil Noecker and James T. Shea, who both registered 395's in the any sight division.

Yankees Hand Defeat To Athletics

DiMaggio, Ford Fashion The Win

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—There was double cause for jubilation in the New York Yankee camp today, a present-day DiMaggio of old and young Ford with a future.

Comeback Joe, back in the lineup after a week of forced idleness, was toting a bat once again packed with authority and Rookie Ed Ford was injecting added strength into Casey Stengel's mound corps.

What it all meant to the rest of the American League, and the Detroit Tigers in particular, was that the Yankees plan to be around a while before surrendering their flag franchise.

The 35-year-old veteran and the 21-year-old rookie got together yesterday to help fashion a pair of 6 to 4 and 5 to 2 wins over the Philadelphia Athletics.

This double triumph strengthened New York's hold on second place and cut Detroit's advantage to three games.

DiMaggio blasted a three-run homer (No. 23) in the first inning of the opener to help Ed Lopat gain his fourteenth win of the year. The Clipper also collected a couple of singles to continue his torrid pace at the plate.

AN EX-YANKEE and an ex-Tiger figured in Detroit's splitting with the St. Louis Browns.

Aaron Robinson, the former bomber, singled with two down in the ninth inning to drive home a run that won the opener, 5 to 4 for the Bengals.

Then Stubby Overmire, the former Tiger, came back in the nightcap to hurl the Browns to a 6 to 2 triumph.

Cleveland's Indians fell four games behind by dropping a pair to the Chicago White Sox, 2 to 1 and 6 to 5.

Bill Wright tossed a five-hitter at the Tribe in the opener, which was won by Marv Rickert's two-run homer off Bob Lemon. The Cleveland ace suffered his seventh loss against eighteen wins.

Billy Pierce allowed the Tribe three homers in the second game but each came with the bases empty. Al Rosen, Joe Gordon and Thurman Tucker all connected. Rosen's was his 33rd of the season.

Pierce, who gave up six hits in all, recorded his ninth win when Gus Zernial circuit clouted in the seventh.

The Washington-Boston game was rained out.

INCLEMENT weather wiped out the "meat" of the National League activity.

The Philadelphia-New York and Boston-Brooklyn twin bills bowed out to the elements.

Thus, Philadelphia's whiz kids remain five and a half games ahead of second place Brooklyn.

Stan Musial brought the St. Louis Cardinals to within seven games of the Sawyermens by driving home all his team's runs in a 3 to 2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Musial accounted for three of the Redbirds' seven hits and enabled lefty Howie Pollet to gain his twelfth victory. Pollet allowed seven hits.

The Chicago Cubs mowed down the Pittsburgh Pirates twice, 4 to 2 and 5 to 2 behind Paul Minner and Frank Hiller.

It was his fifth round-tripper in his last seven games and ninth for the month. Kiner moved eight games and seven days ahead of this 1949 pace when he walloped 54 homers.

Pedestrian Care Would Cut Accidents, Patrolman Says

Alcohol Is Listed Big Cause

Advice Given To Walkers

There would be 20 percent fewer casualties in the highway patrol accident files if pedestrians exercised more care in crossing and walking along highways, according to State Highway Patrolman Charles Watters.

Referring to statements recently made by Col. George Mingle, patrol superintendent, Watters pointed out that of the 127 pedestrians killed on the highways during the past year, nearly forty percent were instances where persons were crossing the highway in the clear where both the driver and the pedestrian had the maximum opportunity to see one another.

Walking in the roadway made up about one-fourth of the fatal pedestrian accidents, he said, and patrol records show that it is twice as dangerous to walk on the right side of the highway with traffic as it is to walk, as required by law, on the left side of the highway facing the approaching traffic.

"We cannot place all the blame on the impulsive actions of children or young people," Mingle said, "since sixty-four percent of the pedestrians killed last year were persons over 45 years of age."

Alcohol, as in motor vehicle accidents, plays a major role in the pedestrian deaths also. One-third of the pedestrians involved in accidents had been drinking. Significant too, is the fact that in the majority of these accidents the pedestrian is in violation of the safety rules at the time.

Watters quoted Colonel Mingle as saying that the pedestrian should, at all times, obey the traffic signals and wait on the curb for the light. He should walk on the sidewalks wherever available.

Along the streets and highways without sidewalks he should walk on the left facing the traffic and step off the pavement for approaching vehicles. Wear or carry something white at night, he admonished, as more pedestrians are struck down during the hours of darkness than any other time.

See and be seen and you will be safer in traffic. Remember, Watters said, that your safety as a pedestrian depends to a great extent upon your own alertness and caution.

War Prisoner Probe Slated By Three Nations

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Aug. 21—The United States, Australia and Great Britain announced today their intention of forcing Russia to account to the United Nations for 800,000 German and Japanese prisoners of war who disappeared after capture by the Soviets.

The three nations also will press for immediate repatriation of any prisoners of war still alive in Russia. They believe there are thousands still being kept in forced labor by the Soviets.

The joint request for the accounting was made in a telegram that arrived at the U. N. yesterday just 30 minutes before the deadline for adding new items to the supplementary agenda for the Sept. 19 meeting of the general assembly.

Repatriation has become an increasingly bitter question in the past few months, with Russia blandly ignoring almost all queries about war prisoners.

The western powers estimate that 400,000 German prisoners of war have not been accounted for by the Soviet authorities as well as between 300,000 and 400,000 Japanese prisoners of war.

Moscow, however, maintains that repatriation has been completed except for war criminals and those who are too ill to be transferred back to their native lands.

Last April 22 and again on June 9 the official Russian news agency Tass announced that repatriation operations with Japan were being discontinued since all Japanese nationals have been returned except for a small handful.

And on May 5 Tass reported that there were only 13,546 German prisoners left in Soviet custody and of these three-quarters were convicted war criminals and the remainder—excepting 14—were under investigation for war criminal activities.

sharply criticized the Senate Finance Committee's failure to recommend such action, and added:

Believing, as I do, that there should be no delay on the part of Congress in giving full fiscal support to the armed services, I shall submit to the Senate the excess profits tax amendment I urged two weeks ago."

The bill which the Senate expects to report Tuesday or Wednesday will increase individual income taxes an average of 16 per cent on Oct. 1, between 2.7 and 2.9 billion dollars a year.

Corporation income taxes are increased 1.5 billion dollars a year. The maximum corporation rate is boosted from 38 to 42 per cent for 1950, and to 45 per cent beginning with 1951.

The Wyoming senator said of this legislation:

"Inasmuch as the pending supplementary defense appropriation bill calls for additional appropriations of more than 16 billion dollars, it is obvious that the committee's tax bill falls far short of paying for the Korean war."

Stephen Early May Quit Post Before Labor Day

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—Reports circulated again in Washington today that Stephen T. Early may soon quit his post as deputy defense secretary, possibly before Labor Day.

Friends of the fiery Virginian declared that Early has repeatedly urged President Truman to accept his resignation so that he can return to the vice president-cy of the Pullman Standard Car Manufacturing Co.

Early, who made a wide reputation as the late Franklin D. Roosevelt's secretary, left private life on May 2, 1949 to become undersecretary of defense. He was elevated to Deputy Secretary Aug. 10, 1949.

It was pointed out that Early originally stipulated that he would stay in the defense post for one year while the difficult reorganization of the military establishment was undertaken.

However, he has now been on the job for 16 months, and friends say that Early would like nothing better than to have Mr. Truman relieve him of his responsibilities at the Pentagon in order to go back to his railroad-ing duties.

When Early was unable to windup his Pentagon job last May, it was reported, he set a deadline of Aug. 1, but was forced to recant once again at the behest of Mr. Truman.

Informed sources now say that the deputy secretary has set a Sept. 1 target date for his separation from public life.

It has taken more than 35,000 years for the Niagara river to cut the seven-mile channel from Queenstown to where the falls now are.

Charleston Man Is Arrested

CLEVELAND, Aug. 21—A 40-year-old Charleston, W. Va., fugitive, arrested by FBI agents in Cleveland, said in his Cuyahoga County jail cell today that he would fight extradition to West Virginia.

Robert Washington Cales was tracked down by the FBI and Cleveland police and arrested at an east side hotel without a fight yesterday.

Cales, a carnival worker who has a wooden leg, escaped from police in West Virginia Aug. 21 just before he was to be arraigned on an extortion charge.

Ray J. Abbaticchio Jr., special agent in charge of the FBI office in Cleveland, said that Cales had demanded $1,500 from a Charleston woman on a threat to "expose" her and her alleged "immoral relations" with a man.

Pedestrian Care Would Cut Accidents, Patrolman Says

Alcohol Is Listed Big Cause

Advice Given To Walkers

There would be 20 percent fewer casualties in the highway patrol accident files if pedestrians exercised more care in crossing and walking along highways, according to State Highway Patrolman Charles Watters.

Referring to statements recently made by Col. George Mingle, patrol superintendent, Watters pointed out that of the 127 pedestrians killed on the highways during the past year, nearly forty percent were instances where persons were crossing the highway in the clear where both the driver and the pedestrian had the maximum opportunity to see one another.

Walking in the roadway made up about one-fourth of the fatal pedestrian accidents, he said, and patrol records show that it is twice as dangerous to walk on the right side of the highway with traffic as it is to walk, as required by law, on the left side of the highway facing the approaching traffic.

"We cannot place all the blame on the impulsive actions of children or young people," Mingle said, "since sixty-four percent of the pedestrians killed last year were persons over 45 years of age."

Alcohol, as in motor vehicle accidents, plays a major role in the pedestrian deaths also. One-third of the pedestrians involved in accidents had been drinking. Significant too, is the fact that in the majority of these accidents the pedestrian is in violation of the safety rules at the time.

Watters quoted Colonel Mingle as saying that the pedestrian should, at all times, obey the traffic signals and wait on the curb for the light. He should walk on the sidewalks wherever available.

Along the streets and highways without sidewalks he should walk on the left facing the traffic and step off the pavement for approaching vehicles. Wear or carry something white at night, he admonished, as more pedestrians are struck down during the hours of darkness than any other time.

See and be seen and you will be safer in traffic. Remember, Watters said, that your safety as a pedestrian depends to a great extent upon your own alertness and caution.

Excess Profits Tax Bill To Be Introduced

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—A high-ranking member of the Senate Appropriations Committee announced today he will introduce an excess profits tax amendment to the five billion dollar tax increase bill.

Sen. O'Mahoney (D) Wyo.,

War Prisoner Probe Slated By Three Nations

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Aug. 21—The United States, Australia and Great Britain announced today their intention of forcing Russia to account to the United Nations for 800,000 German and Japanese prisoners of war who disappeared after capture by the Soviets.

The three nations also will press for immediate repatriation of any prisoners of war still alive in Russia. They believe there are thousands still being kept in forced labor by the Soviets.

The joint request for the accounting was made in a telegram that arrived at the U. N. yesterday just 30 minutes before the deadline for adding new items to the supplementary agenda for the Sept. 19 meeting of the general assembly.

Repatriation has become an increasingly bitter question in the past few months, with Russia blandly ignoring almost all queries about war prisoners.

The western powers estimate that 400,000 German prisoners of war have not been accounted for by the Soviet authorities as well as between 300,000 and 400,000 Japanese prisoners of war.

Moscow, however, maintains that repatriation has been completed except for war criminals and those who are too ill to be transferred back to their native lands.
